Phil Oakley is a travel writer: he goes to places and writes about them for newspapers and magazines. He started his job five years ago, when he finished university. Last year he travelled to the USA and Asia, and spent three months living in the Brazilian rainforest. In fact, Phil only spent eight weeks at home! But he still enjoys going away on holiday. We asked him about his favourite holiday.

'The best holiday I had was seven years ago when I went camping with my best friend. We had our tents, rucksacks and sleeping bags. We had no plans, but we knew we wanted to see as much of France as possible. We flew to Paris and took the train down to the south, where the weather was fantastic. We slept in our sleeping bags on the beach and every morning we had a typical French breakfast with coffee and croissants. We both enjoy the same things, so sometimes we stayed on the beach and sometimes we visited the small towns and villages near the sea.

After two weeks we took a coach and went to Spain. My parents' friends have got a small house in the mountains (the Pyrenees) so we stayed there for two weeks. It wasn't as hot as it was in France so we went walking every day. The flowers and trees there were beautiful and the air was very clear because there's no pollution.

Soon it was time to go home, but I'll never forget that month.'

Uporabljamo ga za izražanje posledic možnega dejanja v prihodnosti:

If you study hard, you will pass the exam. (vejica obvezna)

If + present simple, (pogoj-možno dejanje)	will / won't + nedoločnik (posledica v prihodnosti)
---	--

Odvisni stavek z if uvede pogoj. If uporabljamo s sedanjim časom (present simple). Glavni stavek izraža posledico. V njem uporabljamo prihodnjik z will / won't.

Odvisni in glavni stavek lahko obrnemo – vejice ni.

You will pass the exam if you study hard.

Unless = if you don't

You won't pass your exam unless you study hard.
